

More Government Grant Money Available

The Government has released more money for small business in the form of grants and I wanted to take a moment to share some details with you. They do have some criteria of course:

- You must have held an ABN for a period of at least 3 years (or having been operating 3 years) so even if the entity is new, as long as we can show the business was existing.
- You must be an Australian business and is non-tax exempt.
- Your business requires training in relation to growth and development. So it cannot be used for 'business as usual' but if you are wanting to expand, develop, grow to expand into a new industry, marketplace, region, or product, then this could be perfect. Training can come in many forms.
- You are prepared to input some money yourself. For a very small business, the Government will cover 75% of the 'training' costs ... as the business size gets larger, that percentage drops, ie 200+ FTE gets only 25%.

Want to know more, or enquire on how I can help you – just email me at donna@donna-stone.com.au and I'll send you some info about the grant and how it operates and how you can get started with a helping hand from the Government. Please include a contact phone number in your email.

Thanks.

Donna
